

YSEER BATTLE
STIRS FEAR
IN ENGLAND

VICTORY TO BELGIANS

Three German Advances Near Dixmude Are Successfully Repulsed—St. Mihiel Center of Latest Fighting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, April 27.—The English public, hoping that the most violent phase of the German offensive along the Yser canal has been witnessed, is turning its attention again to the Dardanelles where the landing of troops still is under way. Russia is lending earnest co-operation by bombarding the forts of the Bosphorus, where a Turkish battleship is reported to have made but feeble reply.

An attempt is being made here to minimize the importance of German operations in Flanders, which have been declared to be at least an ample revenge for the British victory last month at Neuve Chapelle.

The Belgian official report of today claims the repulse of three German attacks south of Dixmude which indicates that the German contention that their advance was made over a front extending from Ypres to Dixmude was accurate.

Lizierne Twice Taken.
The latest official German communication claimed the recapture of Lizierne from the French, but the Belgian report, made subsequently, asserted that possession of the town was won for a second time, and that the French were greatly assisted in the assault by Belgian artillery.

Lizierne, on the western side of the canal, has been a bone of fierce contention, having changed hands four times in the course of the present fight. Its importance is due to the fact that its possession would give the Germans an important hold on that side of the canal, and would compel the allies to readjust their line.

That the possible outcome of the fighting along the Yser is causing anxiety in England is indicated by the demand of the press for more news that the government expedite the sending of a new army to France.

Battle at St. Mihiel.
A strong German offensive is also under way at St. Mihiel. The two points where the German offensive began before Christmas—on Ypres and St. Mihiel—have been chosen for the resumption of activities in the spring. It remains to be seen, however, whether these points have been selected as feints.

The eastern front is receiving scant notice in England. Official reports merely speak of detached actions in the region of the Carpathian passes.

Recapture Heights.
Paris, April 27.—The summit of Belfort, which was captured by the Germans on the evening of the same day. We also took some prisoners.

Belgian Troops Active.
London, April 27.—The following Belgian official report on the progress of hostilities dated April 26, was given in London today:

Last night our infantry repulsed three attacks made by the Germans, who again are using asphyxiating gases. The Germans sustained heavy losses.

Today, along our front, the artillery has shown a certain amount of activity. Our artillery replied with success and by a strong fire proved of useful help to the French. These troops made an attack on the heights which yesterday fell into the hands of the enemy, but which was wrested from them again this afternoon.

Tells of Attack.
Berlin, April 27.—German headquarters report says:

The British attacks in Flanders were very strong and forced the new line of opposition north and north-west, which runs from three to four kilometers south of the previous line from Close to the north of Dehoult farm on the Yser canal by way of St. Julian, in the direction of Gravenstael.

The assaults completely broke down under our fire with extraordinary heavy losses.

The enemy's fire completely demolished the house in Lizierne, which was used by the Germans as a headquarters.

The bridgehead situation on the left bank of the canal immediately to the east of Lizierne still is being held by us.

In the engagements at Ypres our troops took 50 machine guns.

Shoot Soldiers.
Paris, April 27.—Thirty-one French soldiers who were shot as they were leaving trenches near Ypres when asphyxiating gases were brought to the American ambulance hospital, in addition to wounds received, they are suffering from inflamed bronchial tubes, and their eyes are swollen from the poisonous fumes. These men, as soon as they breathed the fresh air, their eyes stung and their throats contracted, some of the soldiers became unconscious, active and instinct, but crawling out from the trenches, staggered away from them. The connecting trenches were so choked with fugitives that they were compelled to climb out and make their way toward the rear over open ground. The Germans then turned their guns upon them.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION
KILLS SEVEN WORKMEN AND INJURES OTHERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
White Plains, N. Y., April 27.—Seven workmen were killed and 11 injured today by a premature explosion of dynamite at the new Kensico dam. Four of the injured may die.

NOTHING DEFINITE WILL BE DECIDED BY WAR, SAYS COUNT

Count Julius Andrássy.

Count Julius Andrássy of Budapest, who according to news reports has just been in Berlin talking over peace prospects with German officials, sees no satisfaction to either of the contending sides as a result of the war. He is sure that both the Allies and the Austro-Germans will tenaciously hold their ground, and that the war is bound to end in complete exhaustion to both sides unless it soon comes to an end.

DISCOVER BOMB IN TURK COUNCIL HALL

Powerful Clockwork Explosive Timed to Go Off at Session of Military Leaders.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, April 27.—A powerful clockwork bomb was found hidden yesterday in the ministry of war of Constantinople, according to a dispatch from Saloniki. It was timed to explode at an hour when the council would be in session. The meetings would be attended by Enver Pasha, minister of war, Field Marshal Von der Goltz, and General Limonov Sanders.

An investigation said to have been made disclosed that the bomb was placed in the room by a woman who had come to clean the chimney and then had disappeared. Several minor officials connected with the ministry of war have been arrested on suspicion of being his accomplices. The police believe the plot was directed against the young Turks and the Germans.

Members of the committee of Union and Progress are said to have been decided at a meeting to which no Germans were admitted, to adhere to a waiting policy, but to favor conclusion of separate peace with the allies if Germany failed to provide assistance sufficient to repulse the attack on the Dardanelles.

SWEDISH STEAMER
MINED IN BALTIC

Vessel Sent Down Off Aland Islands—Members of Crew Rescued.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Stockholm, via London, April 27.—The Swedish steamer Centrick on her way from Stockholm to Helsingborg, Sweden, was sunk by a mine off the Aland Islands. The members of the vessel's crew were saved. The steamer Centrick was of 930 tons net and 250 feet long. She was built at Port Glasgow in 1902.

She left Stockholm March 3 for Kirkwall, where she arrived March 27, sailing subsequently for Gothenburg.

Trawler Blown Up.
London, April 27.—The Grimby trawler Ricallo has been blown up in the North sea. Some of the members of her crew are missing.

Seven survivors, some of them terribly mutilated, were picked up out of a crew of nine. The crew was down with the ship. One of the injured men will die.

Opinions differ whether the Ricallo was destroyed by mine or torpedo.

SHIPS THAN ALLIES

British Compilation Shows Total of 543 Hostile Vessels Destroyed, Sunk or Captured.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, April 27.—A compilation just made shows a grand total of 543 ships belonging to Germany and her allies, which by us during the night of April 26, were sunk or captured. Against this score Germany and her allies are credited with disposing of 265 ships of England, France, Belgium and Russia. At the opening of the war 30 English ships were detained in German ports. Fifty British vessels have been sunk by German ships, other than submarines, and up until March 22, German submarines had sunk 29 British vessels.

QUITS VILLA'S ARMY

Head of Aviation Corps Hastens to Join English Colors at News of Brother's Death.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
San Antonio, Texas, April 27.—Responding to a message from his mother in England, announcing the killing of his two brothers in the British army in taking of Hill No. 60 and begging him to come home and fight for England, Major Eduardo DeBequer today wired his resignation to General Stevenson, in whose army he has fought for two years. DeBequer, whose mother is English, was recently made active head of the aviation corps in Villa's army and was sent to San Antonio on a special mission to ship his aeroplane to New York to ship his aeroplane to Canada, from where he will sail to join British colors.

SUICIDE PACT IS BOY'S CONFESSION
ON GIRL'S DEATH

Night in Confinement Results in Hurley Youth Revealing New Angle to Death of Roller Girl.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Lincoln, Ill., April 27.—After a night in solitary confinement, Daniel Hurley, 19, charged with administering Saturday of Catherine Roller, 17, and the girl had made a suicide pact. He gave a reason why they agreed to die and the woman's sister asked why he didn't keep his end of the bargain.

State Attorney C. E. Smith said he believed the boy lost his nerve after witnessing the suffering of the girl who went into convulsions. Hurley told questioners he had been engaged to Catherine for nearly a year. He said she was unhappy at home where "she had to work at the time." From other sources the state attorney learned the engagement had been broken off by Catherine, whose parents objected.

The boy said he bought the poison at the request of Catherine, who had called him Saturday before he called to "be sure and bring the stuff" which meant strychnine.

ASSEMBLYMEN BOOZY
FREDERICK CHARGES

Asks That Members Guilty of Intoxication Be Denied Privilege of Debate—Many Bills Killed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 27.—Assemblyman A. H. Frederick served notice on tonight he would ask that members of the assembly guilty of intoxication be deprived of the privilege of debate and "be considered as guilty of disorderly conduct." This statement was made after the assembly had proceeded half an hour on its program.

"The conduct we witness occasionally by some who are in intoxication during the session of the assembly," declared Mr. Frederick, "is a disgrace upon this house, and it is the duty of the assembly to see that no member of this house attempts to speak while in an intoxicated condition, I shall rise to a point of order."

The assembly killed the Pleser memorial to congress asking that the federal government furnish work to 2,000,000 unemployed. It also killed the Fredrick resolution to print 5,000 copies of the report of the Wisconsin vice commission. The assembly engrossed the Zinn bill for the taking of names for the jury lists from the poll lists in Milwaukee. The Schroeder bill to permit the county to elect a justice of the peace for persons entering the county hospital who are not indigent; and Budington bill requiring that the time of delivery of telegrams be written on each message sent.

It killed the Stewart bill to change the time for opening and closing the polls in the towns to 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. The Tews bill to repeal the non-partisan election law, applied to Milwaukee; the McGowan bill to repeal the state law relating to bounties on adding the fall primaries; the Crosby bill to repeal the state bar board law; the Reid bill for a legislative investigation of the children of the state who are mentally weak; the Harrington bill to repeal the eugenics marriage law; and the Frederick bill to raise the age of consent.

The finance committee unfavorably reported the Bradley bill to repeal the appropriation for a physical education building at the La Crosse normal school and the Hanson bill for the publication of liquor statistics.

FUND FOR FIGHTING
FOREST FIRES URGED

Debate Raised Over Appropriation for Emergency Fund to Prevent Spread of Fire in North Woods.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 27.—A slight controversy over the appropriation of the Scott bill appropriating $30,000 for an emergency fund to fight fires in the forest reserve, and the reading of the executive veto of the anti-tipping bill, led to a short session of the senate last night.

Ackley introduced a substitute to the forestry bill. Senator Glenn stated northern woods already raging in the north woods, and the need for action on the appropriation was necessary. Senator Bennett declared that $5,000 now at the disposal of the forestry department is available for fire fighting purposes. Senator Scott intimated that this money was for running the department and could not be used for fire fighting. Senator Bennett retorted that the law specifically states that it may be used for that purpose, and he was re-enforced in this view by Senator Hanson. The matter finally went to the finance committee.

Senator Scott introduced a bill to recall from the governor the Cunningham bill extending the time for state compensation for slaughter of subterranean animals from June 1, 1915, to June 1, 1917, in order to correct a clerical error.

The C. H. Everett bill providing that applicants for hunting licenses shall be citizens, was the subject of a motion for a committee on conference, made by Senator Ackley. The senate last week refused to concur in an assembly amendment striking out the clause making aliens ineligible for papers eligible to buy a hunting license. As it now stands, the bill requires applicants to be full citizens. The president will appoint the conference committee. He was absent last night, and Senator Platt Whitman acted as temporary chairman.

Governor Philipp Invites Senator to Madison During Visit of Executive.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Marquette, April 27.—Senator Isaac Stevenson has received a special invitation to be the guest at the executive mansion at Madison during the visit of former President W. H. Taft, who will lecture next week at the university. Senator Stevenson is anxious to accept, and if business conditions permit, he will go to Madison next week. He and the former president are well as the present governor, nor are warm personal friends.

DID PLATT'S ADVICE
BENEFIT ROOSEVELT?

QUESTION ASKED COLONEL BY BARNUM IS RULED OUT IN SYRACUSE CASE.

GETS LETTER TOO LATE

Another Letter Read Today Says "Teddy" Didn't Desire Office of Vice President.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Syracuse, April 27.—A telegram in which former United States Senator Platt urged Theodore Roosevelt to sign a bill extending the franchise tax bill grant crossings of state railroads and said that "our friends of the New York Central and Senator Deane were anxious," was read in supreme court here today. The sixtieth day of the $50,000 libel suit brought against him by Wm. Barnes. In reply the colonel wrote Senator Platt he had received the telegram "too late."

These messages were part of the additional correspondence that passed between Colonel Roosevelt and Senator Platt, which was presented in court.

Wm. L. Barnum, the cross-examiner, started off his inquiry by asking Roosevelt whether he had taken the advice of Senator Platt in regard to nomination of vice presidency in 1900.

"I am unable to say," replied Col. Roosevelt.

You were entirely friendly with him, didn't you?

"Oh yes," answered the colonel. "Did he advise you to accept the nomination?"

"Don't say advise," said the colonel. "Well, as result of your interviews with Platt, did he so advise you?"

Colonel Roosevelt's counsel objected to the question, which was ruled out.

A letter from Roosevelt dated Feb. 7, 1900, was read in which the colonel, in referring to the vice presidential nomination said:

"I would a great deal rather be anything, say professor of history, than vice president."

METHODISTS WANT
BIG PENSION FUND

Bishops and Conference Delegates Discuss Ways and Means of Raising Ten Millions.

Chicago, April 27.—Plans to raise a $10,000,000 fund to provide pension for retired Methodist ministers, their widows and orphans, were outlined at a national convention of bishops and conference representatives of the Methodist Episcopal church, which opened here today. Rev. Joseph H. Hingley, corresponding secretary of the board of conference claimants, who made an address, stated that the movement for a retiring competency for aged ministers is on in both the great denominations and is being pressed with great force by the Presbyterians, the Methodist churches of the north and the Protestant Episcopal church of Geneva. The church of certain sections of Baptist and Congregational churches.

The Methodist, with whom the ten million dollar fund plan is a few months old, already have obtained $1,000,000.

"The present intensive campaign," said Hingley, "will reach its culmination at a meeting of the general conference at Saratoga Springs in May, 1916."

The meeting here is being attended by representatives of the Methodist, but by representatives of other denominations with pension schemes of their own. The denominations, it is said, are aiding each other in the movement.

Commercial Relations Between North and South America to Be Stimulated by New Ship Line.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, April 27.—The establishment of a new steamship line between New York and Buenos Aires, financed by business men of Argentina and subsidized by the Argentine government, has been provided for, according to Ricardo Goltz, chief of the Buenos Aires La Razon, who reached New York today aboard the British steamer Tennison.

Mr. Goltz said the project would be discussed at the coming Pan-American financial conference in Washington. There is an earnest desire in South America, particularly in Argentina, to establish closer commercial relations with the United States, he said.

Russians Start New Offensive Movement Resulting in 20,000 Austro-German Casualties.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Geneva, April 17.—The Russians have begun another strong offensive movement around the height of Uzsok pass, in the Carpathian mountains, according to a telegram received by the Tribune of Geneva. The Austro-German casualties there in the last two days, the dispatch says, number 20,000 men.

Melting snow has hindered the Russian advance between Stry and Matamoros.

EXECUTIVE VETO OF ANTI-TIPPING BILL
CAUSES DISCUSSION

Governor's Refusal to Sign Boastful Bill Based on Principle of Personal Liberty.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 27.—On motion of Senator C. H. Everett, the executive veto of the Boeshard anti-tipping bill was made a special order for Thursday morning in the senate, at last night's session.

Governor Phillip's refusal to sanction the bill was widely discussed during the evening. His reasons for refusing to sign it are given in considerable detail and are a clear exposition of the executive's views on the subject of tipping. The chief reasons cited are that the bill is restrictive of the personal liberty of citizens by denying them freedom of action in the exercise of their own property, and sometimes praiseworthy, that it is not justified by the peace, health, safety or morals of society; that the discrimination feature is over emphasized, and that enforcement is practically impossible and is likely to be disregarded, thus breeding disregard of all law, and that it is probably unconstitutional.

Under the governor, "the bill is taken to prohibit compensation to employ for extra service which the employer is not required to furnish, the opportunity to deprive the public of the service for which it is paid, and for service promotive of comfort and convenience, and which in some cases may approach necessity."

"Under the present order, and to make it effective, it is necessary to make an effective enforcement of the bill, taken away to express in a material way appreciation for the courtesy of an employer, but he may not be rewarded for extra service which the employer is not required to furnish by the provisions of this bill, nor by any other law of the state. Thus, the traveler or tourist may not be given incentive for quick service in the hotel, restaurant or barbershop, or to the cab driver, that he may catch his train or make his appointment; the traveler or tourist may not be given incentive for the brushing of his clothes or assistance in the handling of his baggage, he may be deprived of the right to secure and reward special consideration to those who by reason of infirmity or youth may need it; the newboy at the public stand, unless he be the proprietor, may not have a penny reward for his straddling to the nurse in the public hospital may not be expressed in a material way save at the hazard of violating the provisions of this act."

"If I think that the bill really tends to the freedom of action of the citizen in respect to matters in themselves innocent and sometimes praiseworthy, this is no reason for demanding the bill if such restraint is required for the public good. But to insist that the public welfare demands the restraint and that the proposed law will efficiently accomplish it."

Abode for Wisconsin's Criminal Insane Leads All Others in the State.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 27.—Being the newest and structurally the most up-to-date, the buildings of the criminal insane at Waupun are the best of any of the charitable and penal institutions of the state. This is the report made by Engineer W. C. West of the Independence Inspection Bureau of Philadelphia to Commissioner of Insurance Ekern. A separate paint and lighting rod equipment for all buildings and for the stock of the power house. A small fire brigade is recommended and a system of signals for fire drills, in addition to the drills now used in bringing patients to aid from meals. Various suggestions bearing on the future enlargement of the institution are made, particularly with reference to the water system in use.

DISCOVERED BODY
BY SIDE OF ROAD

Thomas Blicher Found Dead by Side of Road Near Sheboygan—Cause Is Not Known.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Sheboygan, April 27.—Thomas Blicher, 42, brother of Senator Wm. Blicher, a well known stock buyer living three miles west of Cedar Grove was found dead by the side of a road at five this morning three miles from his home.

Mr. Blicher left home Monday morning for a trip through the country to purchase stock. He arrived in Belgium for supper last night and started home about nine thirty, driving a team of horses. He was found standing in the road three miles from home by neighbors who started investigation and found Mr. Blicher lying in the road dead. It is not known whether the horses ran over and threw him out killing him, or whether he died of heart failure and fell from the buggy. He leaves a wife and nine children.

VERBAL TILT HELD IN ASSEMBLY OVER
STATE PAPER BILL

Factional Politics Receives Consideration When Perry Measures Engrossed Lower House.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, April 27.—A long verbal tilt in which factional politics received consideration, engrossed the assembly today over the Perry bill, making the Wisconsin official state paper in place of the Madison State Journal and bill finally ordered to a third reading after non-concurrence had been refused by vote of 33 to 46.

An amendment to make Milwaukee Journal official paper failed. Three constitutional amendment proposals were defeated by the house. They provided for the recall of judges, state loans for farmers for improvements and a simpler method of impeachment.

The assembly reconsidered the vote by which last week it passed the Monk bill for investigation into the domestic servant problems by industrial commission and killed the bill. The Weber bill for hospital for incurable mental patients was also voted over until Thursday.

The senate engrossed one of the vice committee's bills providing for appointment of police women, and killed another for licensing and regulation of hotels.

TEXAS RIVERS STILL
RAGE AT FLOOD TIDE

Conditions Generally Are Regarded as More Encouraging as Rain-fall Ceases.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Houston, Texas, April 27.—Reports today from the flooded district on the whole are regarded as encouraging, and the belief is prevalent that no repetition of the 1913 disaster will result. The present center of destruction comprises Brazos, Burleson, Milam, Washington, Bastrop, Waller and Wharton counties where the trans and great areas of the farming land have been inundated.

The Brazos is rising rapidly in lower central Texas and floods are reported coming from its upper branches, but a cessation of rainfall near the source has helped matters considerably.

The Trinity is reported rising rapidly as far south as Long Lake. The Colorado is away out of its banks and enormous damage has resulted along its course. From all flooded points come reports of crop destruction, live stock loss and abandoned homes, but no additional loss of life.

Railways continue to be sufferers and reports of washouts with bridges gone, are coming in hourly. Virtually no lines are attempting to maintain train schedule now with the exception of another 48 hours at the earliest.

The weather today is cloudy with indications of intermittent rains, but these are not expected to have any serious bearing on the situation. Farmers are undeterred and already many are arranging to replant crops.

ISABELLE MACLEAN CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF DRAMATIC CLUB

Thirty-Five Members Attend Annual Banquet at Myers Hotel Last Night—Shakespearean Program.

Following an elaborate banquet at the Myers Hotel private ordinary last evening, at which thirty-five members of the Janesville Drama society attended, Miss Isabelle MacLean was chosen as president for the next twelve months to succeed Rev. E. O. Hoffmeister.

Mrs. W. A. Munn was chosen as first vice-president, and Andrew Gibbons second vice-president without opposition. Miss Mary Stevens was elected unanimously to the position of secretary to succeed Miss Elsie Davis. Two candidates were nominated for treasurer, Miss Mabel Greenman being chosen to succeed herself, over Bert Rutter. Mrs. J. B. Day was chosen as director to succeed herself.

The members sat down at the banquet table shortly after seven-thirty and partook of a delicious five-course luncheon, arranged by a committee chosen from the club members.

The event was given in commemoration of the anniversary of William Shakespeare, noted dramatist, poet and actor. The program of five numbers was built around the life of this great genius.

Toastmaster, Hoffmeister made a few opening remarks fitting to the occasion. After which Andrew Gibbons was called on for a general review of Shakespeare as a genius. Miss Gertrude Hemmings was the next speaker. Her topic dealt with Shakespeare as a poet. The other numbers were given by Miss Nelson, O. G. Oestreich and Director Mrs. Janet B. Day. Mr. Oestreich told of Shakespeare as an actor while Mrs. Day discussed him as a humanist. After the program the election was held, followed by adjournment.

The club held its closing meeting for the year at the city hall on Monday night. The last week of giving three one-act plays before the public this spring was given a thorough discussion. There is only a bare chance of the club members giving a public performance at this time, as many wish to wait until sometime in November. The matter will be taken up for further consideration between the club members and the members and it is expected a decision may be reached by another week.

SHERIFF DEL MAKES TWO YOUTHS QUAKE

Rock County Officer Offers to Take Settlement of Son's Family Disfranchisement into Own Hands.

Sheriff Del Chamberlain made two Rockford youths quake yesterday when they appeared in a Rockford police court, together with Mrs. Grace Chamberlain, wife of the sheriff's son, Harry, and Mrs. Ruth Lake, all charged with disorderly conduct.

"Just let me take my son's place, judge, and I'll fight these fellows separately or both at once," was Sheriff Del's proposal following Magistrate Louison's suggestion that the husband and wife and the two accused men might be locked together in a cell and allowed to settle accounts with their fists. The youths gave Sheriff Chamberlain one look, then glanced at each other and looked to plead guilty. Fines of $5 and costs were assessed in each case. It is said that young Chamberlain will file suit for a divorce soon.

BELOIT MAN BADLY HURT WHEN CAR HIT BY SAND-ON HILL AT KOSHKONONG

Max Schultz, a Beloit young man, is at a Beloit hospital suffering from a fractured leg which he sustained when hurled from a motorcycle on a sandy hill near Koshkonong. Schultz and a companion, William Gilbert, were riding a motorcycle with a sidecar attachment and were hitting a sand dune when the sidecar flipped over and Schultz was hurled some distance over a fence. He struck on his right elbow which was badly broken. For four hours the injured youth arrived in Beloit in an ambulance where he received the first medical attention.

Safety First

Chicago and Northwestern Railway.

A strawberry special of four refrigerator cars and passenger coach for the crew passed through the city yesterday from Chicago to Minneapolis. The train was made up of ninety-one miles, was made in one hour and forty-five minutes, which is traveling faster considering the distance. Engineer McMarrow piloted the train to Janesville.

The regular monthly meeting of the safety committees of the Wisconsin division will be held tomorrow at Chicago. Members of the Janesville yard, shop and office committee will attend and offer a long list of suggestions relative to the safeguarding of system property and life. Among the many recommendations Chairman Leo McMarrow has on his list are: lengthening of the sidewalk crossing gates at the Five Points; a yard cleanup to do away with boards with projecting nails; the stopping of parlor car porters from throwing their waste material and garbage in the vicinity of where their cars are spotted over night near the Five Points, and numerous other suggestions. The report also asks if caboose roof ladders are proper places for hanging signs, as it has been found that many crews carry these signals in such places.

Storekeeper Fritz Bartsch spent Sunday in the pine stump district, at his home at Kaukauna.

Archie Cummings and Howard Wade were in Chicago on Friday. They spent the day at Lincoln Park, and were particularly interested in the zoological garden.

ASK BOYS TO BOOST GOOD ROADS CAUSE

Janesville Commercial Club is Anxious to Secure a Large Enrollment in Contest.

With the stamp of approval unanimously given by the members of the Rock county board of supervisors to the Janesville Commercial club's plan for a good roads contest for Rock county farmer boys under the age of twenty years, it has been possible for the good roads committee of the club to complete the necessary details of the contest. The contest will be held on the 1st of May, and the boys will be given a piece of road which he shall drag and keep in shape. They will also make arrangements for the supervision of the work, pay per hour, and other details.

Besides being paid for the work the boys in each township who does the best job will receive a Fark-Jack-knife fountain pen, and one of the boys who complete the work for the season will be given a hundred mile automobile trip to Madison where they will visit points of interest at the university, the state capitol building and the lake resorts. Adults who are interested in the good roads movement will also be welcome to make the trip at any time and that a big Rock county touring picnic can be arranged.

It is also proposed to have a good roads sign placed on the stretch which is under consideration of each boy entered in the contest. This number will be on file in the Commercial club office and reports will be made to the progress of the work and the conditions surrounding it so that the boys may be informed as to the work being done in all parts of the county.

Besides dragging the road as directed by the board, the boys will also keep the road track free from loose stones and trash, fill up ruts. Rules and requirements will be worked out in the printed matter. Much road work is being done by the county schools for the corn contest, acre contest, and good roads contest and the teachers are being provided with complete information. Those who have not already written for this literature will please write or phone the secretary of the Janesville Commercial club at 111 Madison street.

All boys wishing to enter the contest should write to the Janesville Commercial club at once. Now is the time to enroll.

CLUB IS TO DINE AT "Y" THURSDAY

Secretary McDowell Requests Members to Return Reply Postal Cards Immediately.

Members of the Janesville Commercial club are earnestly requested by Secretary McDowell to mail him as soon as possible their reply cards relative to the complimentary banquet to be given Thursday evening at the Young Men's Christian association building. Quite a few members thus far have delayed forwarding their reply and as a result various necessary arrangements have been delayed.

Edward McMahon, secretary of the Madison Board of Commerce, will be the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. McMahon is recognized as one of the best known and most successful building and development men in the west and as head of the Capitol City Advancement association has an enviable record. Mr. McMahon's topic for the evening has not yet been announced, but his discourse touches upon will be well worth the while hearing. Other speakers of the evening will be President McMahon, Secretary McDowell and City Attorney William H. Dougherty.

The repeat will be served at 5:30 o'clock. Over two hundred members of the Commercial club will be in attendance.

MISS LYDIA MCKIBBEN GUEST OF K. I. A. GIRLS.

Members of the K. I. A. club entertained last evening at a theatre and dinner party in honor of Miss Lydia McKibben, who, tomorrow leaves to spend the summer in the Marquette county. The club girls entertained "The Girl Question" at the Myers and later enjoyed a four-course repeat at Gold's. Place cards of lavender and gold, the color of red roses, as were large wreaths of red roses. The girls presented Miss McKibben with a handsome address book containing the names and addresses of her many Janesville friends.

GIVEN NINETY DAYS FOR FIRST OFFENSE CHARGE.

A. G. METZINGER PAYS FINE FOR SPEEDING OF HIS DRIVER

A. G. Metzinger was arraigned in the municipal court this morning for violating the city ordinance, driving an automobile over fifteen miles per hour and paid a fine of fifteen dollars and costs, amounting to $17.40. Chief Clerk Metzinger swore out a warrant against Metzinger when Courtney, a helper of Metzinger, was his delivery car at an excessive rate of speed on Milwaukee street last night.

JANESVILLE YOUTHS AT LAWRENCE COLLEGE ATTEND INTER-FRATERNITY DINNER

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Appleton, Wis., April 27.—Bradley Conrad, son of William H. Conrad, Janesville, Stuart Mout, son of J. Mout, and C. W. Metcalf, son of George A. Metcalf, attended an interfraternity dinner party given Friday evening by the fraternity at Lawrence college, where all three are students. One course of the dinner was served at each of the four "frat" houses, the evening's festivities winding up with a "strongest" and other informal diversions. About eighty men were present. Conrad and Mout are members of the Theta Phi fraternity and Metcalf of Delta Iota.

CLINTON MAN IS HELD ON CHARGE OF LARCENY.

O. F. Winn, manager of a milk company at Clinton, is being held for a preliminary hearing on May 3 before the Beloit municipal court on the charge of larceny. Winn is alleged to have taken coal worth $50 belonging to his employers. Although the charges were made last November the warrant for his arrest was sworn out on Monday.

MORRIS MILLER

You certainly couldn't call Ad Wolgast a quitter. Neither could anyone substantiate a belief that Ad isn't ambitious. The Cadillac Wildcat is now in Milwaukee training for a ten-round bout in that city with Freddie Welsh on May 4. An ordinary man who had suffered the handicaps in his profession that have mused up the hectic career of Wolgast in late years would decide to abandon that chosen profession and seek another in the hope of a change of luck. Followers of the game have in late years ascribed Wolgast to the list of retired boxers a half dozen times only to have him bob up again and make a new start.

Wolgast has broken his left arm something like four times. Only a few months ago, when matched to box Freddie Welsh in New York, he fractured the brittle whip in training. That arm has proven to be an extremely fragile thing for a boxer to carry around, but Wolgast is one of the most optimistic creatures in the world. He refuses to believe that arm is any more brittle than arms carried by other boxers.

Though Wolgast never was a real popular champion, boxing enthusiasts have been a unit in extending sympathy to him in his trouble. He wasn't the greatest boxer in the world, but when engaged in bouts he certainly gave the fans an exhibition of almost everything he possessed, which is more than one can say of most champions.

Hughie Jennings' Tigers are going at a fast clip for the very good reason that his team is hitting the ball hard and his pitchers are thus allowed to win games even though their efforts are not airtight. Jennings has the nucleus for a winning team, made so by Cobb, Crawford and Bush. Incidentally he seems to have found a really great second baseman in Young, while Kavanaugh is playing first base in a very satisfactory manner.

McGraw carried a young infielder named Dyer last year, but seldom gave him any show. With St. Paul he is fairly killing leather. In a recent game he got a single, double and home run.

Otto Knabe's Baltimore Feds have not been going as smoothly as a year ago and are down in last place. Knabe, however, has a good ball team and in due time is sure to drop some of the other clubs in the race below him. This, too, will be absolutely essential for the financial success of the club, for a losing team, even when it has the field to itself, is not apt to draw big crowds when it is not winning its share of games.

Al Lawson, king of baseball league promoters, has just formed his sixteen minor circuit—the Buckeye league. Canton, Akron, Newark, Lima, Marion and Findlay form the circuit. Its longest jump is 150 miles and its shortest Akron to Canton, 20 miles. Its season opens May 19. Among leagues organized by Lawson in sixteen years promoting are the Central, Tri-State, Three-I, Union, Interstate and Atlantic.

The Boston team is sure to be well up among the hitting aggregations of the American league this year. That outfield has a lot of batting strength, and it is surprising to find that Scott and Janvin have some ability in this respect, especially when hits are needed. Hobbs will be with the stick, and in all the team is minus a real weak hitter.

Benny Leonard is taking his bout with Champion Johnny Kilbane, set for April 28, New York, seriously. And if having an ex-champion for your sparring partner and tutor means anything, the featherweight champion may be in for a tough time. For Leonard has induced Billy Ritchie to prep him for the coming battle. Ritchie has already begun his work. Of course, the prediction by Ritchie that Leonard will win the bout was to be expected. Ritchie also says he will be in Leonard's corner on the night of the battle.

WHITE SOX IN SLUGGING VICTORY OVER CLEVELAND
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Chicago, April 27.—The Chicago White Sox are traveling at a wonderful clip. Yesterday they downed the Cleveland Indians by a score of 12 to 1, bombarding two of Cleveland's hurlers while Faber held the Indians at bay. This is the fifth straight victory for the Sox.

The American used three men on the mound to stop the Sox. Mitchell, Jones and Walker. All failed to check the Sox in their wild batting, who scored almost at will. They made seven hits, three of which were triples by the Collins duo and Roth. Happy Felsch went into the game and scored twice, making two nice wall-ops.

Cubs Are Trounced.
Cincinnati, O., April 27.—The Chicago Cubs lost a town-tot game to Cincinnati after making a strong bid for victory by a score of 13 to 12. Hipp Vaughn started, but gave way to Adams and Schott. With seven runs behind in the sixth, the Cubs scored eight in that round, lacking the necessary punch to bring home the one run.

SOLDIERS PLAYING BASEBALL BEHIND THE TRENCH LINE

Canadian Soldiers Introduce American Game to Brother Soldiers With Great Success.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Northern France, April 27.—It's baseball time in France. Spring is here; the mud has gone, when a soldier isn't fighting he must be playing, and the only game a Canadian knows is baseball.

France is beholding baseball for the first time. England is playing it! The Canadians are the missionaries of baseball, behind the allies' lines, and they get so much out of it that the French and the English are beginning to believe that it is really a good game, after all.

The English cricket players, in a dozen places behind the English lines, have thrown away their cricket paddles and are taking up the baseball bat, with the Canadians.

Morning, noon and night, there are baseball games going on behind the lines wherever a few Canadians are gathered together. Sometimes the game is one-old-cat; sometimes it's only knocking up flies. But, at certain times, there have been inter-company baseball games, with hundreds of dollars of Canadian money staked on the result and with English and French officers betting enthusiastically as anybody else.

"Cricket's a coremony," baseball's a game," said one English colonial who has been converted to baseball. "You have to have a large number of men to play cricket and it takes a long time to play a game, but with this odd game of baseball you can start with any number of men and play as long or as short a game as you please. And you get results quickly."

"Why, do you know," he continued, "half a dozen fellows can get out their bat and ball and have a rippling time for half an hour, any old time, while one can't have that sort of fun at cricket. Beyond a doubt, the Canadians are the missionaries of the game of baseball. Their work is done, unconsciously, too. They don't beg the English to drop cricket. They just get out with a ball and a bat and the English join in the fun. And the results is that more than one English chap, who gets back to England alive, will set out to teach the game of baseball to his English friends."

It is not in France, alone, that baseball is being played by the Canadians. At the Canadian camps in England there have been some hot games, witnessed by Englishmen. The convalescent soldiers in Canadian hospitals in England, bring themselves back to strength by the exercise of baseball and it's safe to say that there are twenty feet, at present in England, from which are radiating the deadly germs of the baseball disease.

The chief difficulty the Canadians have, in their missionary work, is a lack of baseballs. They've used rubber balls and now, and then they find a cricket ball, but it's a regular baseball their palms are itching for.

THIRTY BONES A MONTH LOOKED GOOD TO LIL ARTHA IN MAINE EIGHT YEARS AGO

THE STORY OF JACK'S LIFE IS ONE OF MEALS.

According to a story which has come in from the Maine woods, Jack Johnson worked there for several months eight years ago this last winter. He was glad to get $30 a month, and received $50 for a fight he then had with a local celebrity.

Any baseball fan knows that baseball is rather silly, without a baseball, you'll use what you can find in its stead.

Baseballs, just to drop a hint, make neat parcel post packages. And a baseball, in its square box, addressed to "The Canadian Expeditionary force, for Baseball Players," will find its way sure as good throw to second, into the palm of a Canadian catcher.

It was the civil war that distributed baseball in America. It was first at New York game. The New York soldiers played it wherever they went. Before long it was being played through the Union lines, and when the war was ended the soldiers carried the game to every corner of the new union.

Who says the Canadians can't carry baseball throughout Europe even to Germany?

John Titus, now with the Kansas City Blues, who was put out of the game for weeks last year because of a beating, was struck in the head in an exhibition game April 5 and again is laid up.

BERGDOLL ENTERS TWO SPECIAL CARS

Philadelphia Millionaire Motor Driver and Brother to Pilot Mounts in Classic Event.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Indianapolis, April 27.—Erwin Bergdoll, millionaire Philadelphia brewer and auto race fan, has entered two cars of his own design in the next Indianapolis 500-mile race, swelling the total list of entries for that event to nineteen. Bergdoll expects to drive one of the cars himself, with the next to last lap reduced to the wheel of the other. A third Bergdoll entry, which was scheduled, did not materialize.

Bergdoll, though an amateur, is one of the crack drivers of the racing game, having won many events several years ago when he was campaigning the big league meets of the country in a Benz. He thus took down the 1911 Fairmount park road race, the last of these classic events held, in extremely stylish fashion, and led the field in the 1912 free-for-all at Elgin until a tire change in the next to last lap reduced him to second place. Brother Grover is less well known, but under the experienced tutelage of Erwin is expected to develop rapidly.

Additional entries for the next Indianapolis race are scheduled to pour in rapidly during the next few days, at least thirty five cars and possibly forty being counted on to report before entries close, May 1.

CANADIAN CLUBS IN START OF SCHEDULE

International League Starts Schedule Despite Reverse Caused by Federal League.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, April 27.—Harassed by Federal League raids and competition and also the European war, the success of the International League, making its debut today, will be closely watched by the moneyed interests of baseball as well as the fans.

The International presents a peculiar baseball situation. It is the only O. G. League which has peculiarly suffered from the war, because of its Canadian membership. The season there last year was a financial failure.

Transfer of the Baltimore franchise to Richmond, Va., forced by the Feds popularity in Oystertown, which run out Manager John Dunn's team—and with Dunn himself a native Baltimorean—caused today's opener to have special interest. New owners for the first time has Federal opposition this year, was another interesting feature of today's International inaugural.

An unusual bunch of amateur fistie talent will touch toes here tonight in the New York state championship tournament at the City Athletic Club. The boxing revival here has developed a number of new and good local fighters. Eddie Black, a 108-pounder, is said to be especially promising. Most of the regularly licensed clubs where boxing instructions is given have a string of embryo fighters entered tonight.

Let the want ads help you to get any thing you want.

SEEK TO RE-OPEN FRENCH RACE TRACK

Track Followers Seek Opening of Sport on Turf to Aid in Breeding of Horses.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Paris, April 27.—Practically a universal demand has just gone up in French sporting circles for the reopening this spring of all the leading French race courses. Longchamp, Auteuil, Chantilly, Maisons-Laffitte and Desaulles, it is insisted, should at least be re-opened at the leading events such as the Grand Prix, the Derby, the Diane and the Grand Critérium should be run.

Backers of the movement insist that not only would the re-opening of the race courses fall to represent any inharmonious contrast with the great struggle in which France is engaged, but they insist that the struggle itself has made the re-opening of the courses all the more imperative. Countless thousands of the best horses of France have already been killed in the war, they point out. Thousands more must yet die, and it is imperative that France should not allow a lapse for a single instant her efforts at improving the breeding of horses. With the close of the war, France will have greater need than ever before for rearing the best horses possible.

Aside from this phase of the question, the track element insist that as racing has not been abandoned in England on account of the war there is no reason why it should be dropped in France. They also insist that the French race tracks constitute an essential element in the industrial life of France. It is at the meets they point out that the great military establishments of the Rue de la Paix show to the world their new creations. These establishments have more need than ever this year of this opportunity, and the sportsmen insist the tracks must open. It seems like also that their arguments will win.

I'M GOING TO TRY AND SHAKE THAT PEAR OFF THE TREE.

AND HE DID.

THE GOOD JUDGE MEETS A BRIDE AND GROOM.

SAY JUDGE, I'VE JUST BEEN SPICED, AND THE LITTLE LADY SAYS SHE WANTS ME TO USE THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW.

A SENSIBLE WIFE, MY BOY, YOU KNOW WHAT'S BEST AND SHE WANTS YOU TO HAVE IT.

"SPICED for life"—that's what men say when they hook up with the Real Tobacco Chew.

It's the good tobacco that satisfies—and you get your comfort from a little chew. Happy as a bride-groom—and they pass the good news on.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-D CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes; how it satisfies how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.

ANNUAL MEETING OF Y. M. C. A. ATTRACTING ATTENTION TONIGHT

Much Interest Shown in the Outcome of the Election of Directors to Be Held This Evening.

Owing to the prominence that the affairs of the local Y. M. C. A. have gained in the past few weeks the annual meeting of members called for this evening at seven-thirty at the Y. M. C. A. building is of unusual interest to members. New directors are to be chosen, who will in turn elect officers, including a general secretary. All members of the association interested in its welfare are urged to attend so that matters may be adjusted to the satisfaction of all.

It is understood that a full report of the business of the association will be given and that matters of importance will be discussed before the election of directors. This is the first general public meeting the members have received notice of in several years. It is understood that some members received printed notices, but as the call was published in the Gazette, according to law, it is expected that it will be largely attended by the general public, whether or not they received the special notices.

LAUDS FRANK SMITH BEFORE ASSESSORS

Supervisor of Assessments Taylor Dubs Janesville Man "Inflexible Assessor."

The work of Frank L. Smith as assessor of the city of Janesville came in for unstinted praise this afternoon at the annual meeting of the assessors of Rock county when Supervisor of Assessments Frank A. Taylor dubbed him the "inflexible assessor." The matter of assessing automobiles was the subject under discussion at the time and Mr. Taylor was urging the necessity of putting full valuation on all new cars. "I bought a new Ford car last year and Smith insisted on fixing a valuation of $600 on it," Taylor declared. "That's why our assessment is so high and stands up so well in Janesville. It's because Smith is an inflexible assessor."

The matter of assessing leaf tobacco was another topic for considerable argument at the session this afternoon. Several assessors were of the opinion that the price of $25 per case for binders and $10 for fillers was too high a valuation this year when tobacco was so poor and the market was bad. Mr. Taylor, who is firm in his position, however, that the schedule of valuations remain as it would be fair, he contended, taking it for several years.

There was a full attendance of the assessors at the meeting today and several of the township chairmen were present to listen to the arguments and discussions.

TWO OLSONS BEFORE JUDGE H. MAXFIELD

Charge of Illegal Voting Dropped Against Ole Olson of Clinton—Court Suspends Sentence on Albert Olson.

There were two Olsons up in the municipal court this afternoon, when Ole Olson of Clinton, Wisconsin, was arraigned on the charge made by District Attorney Dunwiddie, for illegal voting at the recent Clinton election, and Albert Olson, who received a three year suspended sentence in Green Bay for second offense larceny.

In the preliminary examination of the Clinton Olson, Judge Maxfield upheld the motion of the defending attorney, M. O. Moutat, and dismissed the warrant against the young man, finding that he was a legal resident of Clinton at the time of his voting.

The following people testified: Triggs, F. Christman, Fred Kahn and Katherine Mulooly. It was proven by the defense that Olson, while a resident in the country for a number of months and was married there, he was still a resident of Clinton according to recent decisions in the supreme court.

Good looks saved Albert Olson from going to Waupun, admitted Judge Maxfield, when he suspended sentence on Olson for the theft of eight dollars from a residence on River street Monday morning. Although Olson last year was convicted of larceny while he was employed by the City Ice company, the court decided to give him a final chance, and he was placed in charge of the state board of control.

BARNES GRAVE AS TEDDY TESTIFIES

COMPLAINT MAY BE FILED OVER CASE

Janesville City and Police Officials Hope to See Further Investigation at South Janesville.

City and police officials are awaiting with interest on what further action will be taken after the conviction of Fred Vogel, who paid a fine of $25 and costs in the municipal court for selling liquor on Sunday at the Dew Drop Inn in South Janesville. Under the statutes a complaint filed with the town of Rock board will cause the revocation of the liquor license, and any citizen in the town of Rock can compel such action by filing a complaint with the board. Under a decision of the state supreme court, in the State vs. Curtis, page 367, the court held that if the complaint was filed with the board by a citizen of the township where the offense had been committed, the board is forced to call a meeting within ten days and in case of a conviction declare the license void. The provisions also allow for mandamus proceedings to force such action and revoking of the license.

"It would be a moral improvement to the city of Janesville if an investigation of these resorts was made," declared one of the officials.

Destroying the Mosquito.

The way to destroy the mosquito in its larval stage is to pour a little kerosene on the surface of the pool or stream inhabited by the industrious wiggler. The oil shuts out the supply of oxygen from the water beneath. The wiggler rises tall first to the surface and tries to force his breathing tube through the thin layer of oil. He fails and promptly dies from suffocation—an suitable death for so frigid an insect.

LAST SERVICES FOR JOSEPH L. BOSTWICK

Remains of Prominent Business Man Are Tenderly Laid to Rest in Oak Hill Cemetery.

The funeral rites for the late Joseph L. Bostwick were conducted this afternoon at four o'clock at Christ Episcopal church, on Court street, Rev. John McKinney, rector, officiating. Outside of the seat in the pew occupied by the deceased, which was decorated in white satin ribbon and covered with flowers, the church was filled with relatives and friends, including the employees of the Bostwick firm, who attended in a body.

That one of Janesville's most prominent business men should be taken away so quickly brought about added bereavement from the more distant friends and neighbors. The services were extremely sad, for truly an industrious and beloved citizen had passed away.

At the organ, opened the services with "Come, Ye Disconsolate," followed by a "Prayer and Lament" by Handel. The choir of the church sang the following hymns, both of the misfortunes of the departed: "Right the Good Fight" and "Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee." Two burial chants were also rendered.

The pallbearers were intimate friends of the deceased and employees of the firm of J. M. Bostwick and Sons. They were George S. Parker, Fred Clemens, Albert Schaller, John Phillips of Milwaukee, Percy Bolton and Anton C. Benkert. The procession left the church at four o'clock, the remains were interred in Oak Hill cemetery.

Many beautiful flowers were contributed.

During the day today, numerous friends of the deceased, including the employees from the Bostwick firm, visited at the residence on St. Lawrence avenue to view his remains.

His death came as a shock to many, after a brief illness, Saturday afternoon at three-thirty-five o'clock.

At four o'clock this afternoon the business houses of the city closed through respect to the memory of the departed.

A meeting of the retail division of the Commercial club was held yesterday afternoon as a mark of respect to the late J. L. Bostwick, who was chairman of that section of the club. It was unanimously decided to join other business interests in closing the stores during the funeral hour today afternoon and the following resolution was offered and adopted:

Resolved: That the death of Joseph L. Bostwick comes as a shock to the retail business interests of the city and his going will be felt keenly, not only by those who have been in close touch with him, but by the general commercial interests of the community.

Mr. Bostwick was foremost in matters of interest to the retail trade, his co-operative spirit was legion, he gave freely of his time and money and his optimism was an encouragement to those associated with him.

He was thoughtful and considerate of those connected with his institution as he was also of his friends and his cheerful disposition, clear whole some life will be an example which will live long in the memory of his friends.

Be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be placed upon the records of the retailers' division of the Commercial club and a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

MORE VERSES THAT HELPED.

The most interesting thing to me about the quotations sent in by my reader friends in response to my request to pass along thoughts that have helped them is that so few of these quotations are from great authors. "Author unknown" or "clipped out of a newspaper," was written on many and others were from obscure authors.

I passed along some of these quotations a few days ago; I am giving you some more today. Again I ask my letter friends forgiveness if lack of space has crowded out their contributions. That does not mean it was not appreciated.

"My motto chosen when just beginning life was

"To make the world within our reach

Somewhat the better for our living

And gladder for our human speech."

"Now fifty years later I am moved by this 'That thou hast to do, do quickly'

"Who among us has his heart's desire or having it is satisfied?"

"Build a little fence of trust

Around today

Fill the space with loving work

And therein stay

Look not through the sheltering bars

Upon tomorrow

God will help thee bear what comes

Of joy or sorrow."

"Just a little verse of Scripture that has been in my mind this week. It may help others:

"Fear not thou for I am with thee!"

"My favorite is one which helps me when I am about to lose my temper with the home folks:

"They are such dear familiar feet that go along the path with ours—feet fast or slow but trying to keep pace; if they mistake we must be mute, not turning to impute grave faults, for they and we have such a little way to go, can be together such a little while upon the way, we must be patient while we may."

—George Klingbe.

"If you would live with ease, do what you ought, not what you please."

—Franklin.

"Who sweeps a room as to God's law—

Makes that and the action fine."

"Keep a smile on your face

Keep a laugh in your heart

Let your lips bubble over with song

'Twill lighten your load

As you travel life's road,

And help some other sinner along."

"It is Satan's custom by small sins to draw us to greater sins as the little sticks set the great ones on fire and a wisp of straw kindles a block of wood."

—Nanton.

"It isn't the thing that you do, dear,

It's the thing you've left undone

That gives you the bit of heartache

At the setting of the sun."

—Margaret Sangster.

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to a young man whose mother has a bad reputation; in fact her name was mixed up in a divorce scandal in another city a short time ago. But the son is in every way respectable.

My relations think that I should drop the matter because of his mother; but she will never tell me that she will marry me.

She says, whenever I ask her that she loves me and could be happy with me, but she is never going to marry or else isn't ready yet. She loves me, but she is never going to marry or else isn't ready yet. She

MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRL

Miss Justine Johnstone, a well-known model and show girl, has been pronounced the most beautiful girl in America by several artists for whom she has posed, and is referred to as the typical American girl. Her photograph won the $5,000 prize at the photograph show in New York.

from the United States. For the present, the journal will deal chiefly with the women's side of the war situation.

SIGNAL VICTORY WON BY JAPANESE WOMAN

High Tribunal of Japan Gives Breach of Promise Award to Young Woman in the Case.

Tokio, April 27.—Miss Hede Nozawa has won $10,000 by the award of the highest court of Japan, from Sozochiro Yankaka, for breach of promise which is not only the first breach of promise to be adjudicated in Japan, but along step toward recognition of the rights of women, who under the old regime were considered more or less as chattels, as they still are in most of the orient.

Under the existing law, marriage is not valid unless registered, and registration is not compulsory or even usual.

Miss Nozawa has consented to share Yankaka's house on condition that they should be entered on the record. Yankaka refused to do so for months, and left the house after quarreling with the girl.

Miss Nozawa brought suit, but one court put down her case. Then she took it up in another court and was also refused, and she took it up to the highest court of Japan.

ENGLISH WOMEN RESENT SOME OF THE WAR LAWS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, April 27.—(War work for women has its official limitations, since the Home Secretary refuses to grant licenses to women who have successfully passed the examinations required of drivers of motor vehicles. The reason the Home Secretary gave to the applicants was the public's alleged lack of confidence in women drivers.)

"Could he not leave the public to decide the issue?" Miss Phipps, president of the National Federation of Women Teachers, in an address before that body in London the past week.

Miss Phipps aired other grievances against the government in which she had the sympathy of the teachers. The legislation closing the liquor houses to women until 11:30 a. m. and not to the men was based on the lie, she said, that most of the drinking was done by soldiers' wives. This she considered a deadly insult to the women.

Discrimination in the matter of wages existed in the factories furnishing munitions of war, she charged, as men received more pay than the women for equivalent work.

Instead of putting children into the harvest fields next summer, Miss Phipps proposed that the stronger better nourished boys from Eton and Harrow and the other great schools be set at this work.

MILLIONS IN PROPERTY HELD BY TRUSTEES.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, April 27.—"Enemy property" valued at $426,506,380 is held by the Public Trustee, according to his annual report just issued. Of this sum $270,000,000 represents property held on behalf of individuals, $85,000,000 capital in partnerships, $145,000,000 capital in companies and the rest the income on investments.

Glimpses of Married Life

By Mrs. Eva Leonard

"Of course you must go. It's the event of the season," Mrs. Parsons' tone was final.

But the baby, what will I do with him?" objected Nell.

"Get your mother to wait over a day or two longer; she will know. Won't you, Mrs. Reeves?"

"Of course I will; what is the smiling response."

"Why the Scotts are going to give a lawn party next Thursday, and Nell must go, in the first place, she hasn't been anywhere for a long time, and this is her opportunity to meet these pleasant people. Young Mrs. Scott is about her age and has a baby nearly two years old. Of course it's a question what to do with Master Harlow, and I said I knew you would postpone your going home a few days to give her this outing. You will, won't you?"

"Certainly I will. I haven't told Mr. Reeves the exact day I expected to leave."

"Dear, obliging little mother," said Nell, kissing her.

Don't want to go with ill-fitting clothes and I am sure I can wear anything I have," protested Nell.

"Try something on. I'll help you after it. I'm not going to take no for an answer, and so Parsons put her foot around Nell's waist and headed her for the bedroom to "try on."

Mrs. Reeves joined the council and the verdict was that a thin white dress could be whipped into shape with least work.

"It's two miles out there; how are we to go?" inquired Nell, when the dress specter was laid.

"They are to send in the Scotts' big touring car so we can go in together. Mrs. Ellison will go with the doctor."

Very sweet and girlish, Nell looked as she bent over the cradle before her mother. "Mother, you think he'll be all right while I'm gone?"

Her mother laughed. "I am perfectly certain that I can care for him, so enjoy yourself," and she kissed Nell goodby.

The well-kept Scott lawn was covered with chairs and tables and deep porches held divans and easy chairs. Everything bespoke affluence and refined taste. Mrs. Ellison was standing with young Mrs. Scott when Nell alighted, and acknowledged her greeting with a cold stare.

"What can be the matter with Mrs. Ellison?" whispered Nell as they passed on to greet the elder Mrs. Scott, who had hardly seen her since baby came, but I am manifestly under a cloud."

"The evil spirits that dwell with her alone can tell; she may have had pieces for dinner." They laughed noisily, for they were hearing the hostess.

"Mrs. Scott, I want you to meet my nearest neighbor and dearest friend," said Mrs. Parsons, presenting Nell.

The gracious, motherly woman made Nell feel entirely at home by inquiring about the baby as if she had known her for years and was interested in all that concerned her. Nell sat down on the porch, for she felt shaky after her ride. Here young Mrs. Scott found her and they visited about their babies as only young mothers can. When the men arrived in their spotless white flannels, refreshments were served. Then several of the men including Dick, went off to play tennis. Young Mr. and Mrs. Scott visited with Nell on the porch. Finally Mrs. Scott went to get her little girl at Nell's urgent request. Her husband was sitting on the railing of the porch breaking off a spray of jasmine, which he tossed into Nell's lap as Mrs. Ellison passed. The innocent action seemed criminal in the scornful glance she cast at Nell, who flushed and looked down.

"I believe if that woman had lived in colonial times she would have been arrested for having the evil eye," laughed Nell uneasily. "She always makes me feel like giving myself up to the police for some unknown crime."

"The doctor is a good sort. I never saw much of her," answered the young man.

"Would that I had been born under as lucky a star," replied Nell fervently.

Nell turned, and looking through the vines, saw Mrs. Ellison meet Mrs. Scott, who had the little girl and draw her aside down a walk behind some pines.

What could she want?

Household Hints

DELICIOUS MORSELS

MADE IN A MINUTE.

Cheese—Grate or chop cheese in fine bits. Scatter it over butter, crackers or salt wafers and sprinkle with dash of red pepper. Heat about two minutes in moderate oven.

Snowdrifts—Spread honey jelly lightly on square graham crackers and put one or two marshmallows on each. Place in a pan and set in moderate oven about a minute until marshmallows are puffed and slightly browned.

Cracker Bonbons—Split small plump oyster crackers, insert a filling of peanut butter, melted chocolate and put the two halves together again. The children love these.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To your list from vegetables or other foods without removing scum from kettle. This is easily accomplished if small holes are punched in first row of next and so on, till you have a triangle. The kettle can be tilted and the liquid drains through the holes. Further, the steam from cooking food can escape, thus preventing cover from vibrating or the contents from boiling over.

When hot dishes or hot pans stick to cloth, take a cloth, on it put a little water, lay it over the pan, then take a dry cloth and dry and rub all over it again; will have no more trouble.

After you have used vacuum cleaner or carpet sweeper on carpet, remove brush from sweeper, saturate it with gasoline, replace brush, go over carpet with the sweeper; repeat as brush becomes dry. You will be surprised how bright and clean your carpet will look.

To clean straw matting, put two tablespoons ammonia in one gallon warm water; wash and dry immediately.

To destroy house flies, take half teaspoon black pepper, one teaspoon brown sugar, one teaspoon cream; mix well together, place mixture in the room where flies are troublesome.

When working buttonholes in bias material or goods which ravel, first starch the material stiff and then stretch over nail.

After polishing kitchen faucets and pipes with a good metal polish, apply a thin coat of the oil which is used for making gold paint.

To counteract odor of onions, chew and swallow leaves of parsley after eating onions; magic breath sweetener.

THE TABLE.

Escaloped Veal—Chop cold cooked veal fine, put layer in baking dish, then layer of crushed crackers, salt, pepper and butter, and so on, till dish is full. Save water in which veal was boiled and moisten each layer. Put bits of butter over top. Pour over all 1 1/2 cups milk and four tablespoons cream.

Banana Salad—Cut bananas lengthwise in half, dip in mayonnaise dressing that is rather sweet, roll in crushed peanuts, cover with whipped cream, then place several maraschino cherries on top; serve on lettuce leaf.

Delicious Soft Gingerbread—Half cup sugar, cup molasses, half cup butter or lard, one teaspoon each of ginger, cinnamon and cloves (scant), two tablespoons soda dissolved in one cup hot water, 1/2 cup flour; add two beaten eggs at the last.

Maple Syrup Ice—Boil one and one-half cups maple syrup to a soft milk and stir; it becomes hard add more milk—about a teaspoon or maybe more.

DONALD CONFERS WITH LIBRARY OF CONGRESS AS TO LISTING DOCUMENTS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 27.—Secretary of State Donald has taken up with the library of congress the matter of the listing of documents of the "Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau." Madison, with the congressional library as state publications, it appears that in the monthly list of state documents issued by the library at Washington there appeared recently several titles of pamphlets published by the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau. This is a private concern, and it is generally understood that William H. Allen, who conducted the recent university survey, is primarily interested in its organization and output. Mr. Donald takes the position that its documents are private publications and that no authority exists for including them in the files of the congressional library.

Henry J. Harris, chief of the document division of the library, writing to Secretary Donald, said: "During the month of February we received a few issues of the publication entitled 'Everybody's Business,' published by the Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau, Madison, Wis.; the publication has the appearance of being issued by an official office and as so many of our states at the present time have bureaus of efficiency we assumed, perhaps somewhat hastily, that the document was issued by authority of the state." From the tenor of your letter, I infer that this publication is not issued by authority of the state. If this is true we should be very glad to have you inform us of this fact."

The government's list of state publications goes to libraries, schools and colleges all over the country. The university survey report is listed in the federal publication at $2 per copy for non-residents and free to residents of Wisconsin. Secretary of State Donald is seeking to determine whether any right exists to advertise reports of state departments for sale.

JANESVILLE YOUNG WOMEN WERE DUMPED INTO DITCH WHEN AUTO TURNED TURTLE

Two Janesville young women, whose names have been kept secret, figured in a driving automobile accident Sunday evening when two north-bound Beloit. They were riding in a car driven by Otto Wobig, a Clinton youth. The driver turned from the steering wheel to take a piece of candy offered by one of the young women in the rear seat, the machine swerved suddenly and in a flash tumbled over into the ditch. Wobig had no chance to get out. The other three occupants escaped uninjured and hastened to Wobig's rescue. He suffered minor bruises.

MAKING STRONG SACKS TO PROTECT SOLDIERS.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, April 27.—Bags of light cotton cloth roughly stitched together with fine thread have been received in great numbers by relief committees from women who risk these dimmy contrivances will answer the purpose of sand-bag protection for soldiers at the front. Miss M. L. Tyler, head of a committee collecting these sacks, has disclosed the extent of this wasted effort in a warning to women that the sand bags the soldiers need must be made of jute or some heavy material and that the sewing must be done by string instead of thread.

Sandbags are not only the best bullet stoppers, but the easiest and quickest way of making protection. An urgent call for them as life savers has been made by officers at the front. The result is, sack making is taking the place of muller and sock knitting among patriotic women.

There is no place you can dispose of anything as quickly and cheaply as through a classified ad. Try it and be convinced.

When Billy Sunday Came to Town

By ALEXANDER CORKEY
Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly Co.

"That will be an essential part of the deal," responded Mr. Graham. "You can see, Mr. Nelson, that my friend, having his money invested in this newspaper, naturally wants an editor who is also financially interested in the enterprise."

With much reluctance Reginald agreed to sign a note for the price of fifteen shares of stock.

Before he left Mr. Graham's house it was practically decided that the stock of Mr. Marchmont should be purchased by Mr. Graham's friend and Reginald.

"Who is this friend of yours?" asked Reginald abruptly just before he arose to leave.

"He desires to remain incognito for the present," said the lawyer evasively. "I am acting as his trustee."

In a few days the change of editors was made, and the Courier appeared with the name of Reginald Nelson as editor. Reginald had made it plain that he was to be allowed to conduct the paper exactly as he deemed best, and he emphasized the fact that the devotion of the Courier to reform issues would probably be strengthened instead of diminished.

"We well know your stand on those matters," Mr. Graham had said, "and if we had not desired an editor who stood for reforms we would not have asked you to assume charge of the newspaper."

Ned Rowlands had been given the position of city reporter at the request

"We are glad to see you, Mr. Nelson."

Of Mr. Graham. At the time of his selection for the position Reginald did not know the young man, but he soon learned that he was an old friend of Bud McCrea's, and he was not quite satisfied with his work as city reporter. He seemed to gather only commonplace news, and the vital reports of the city's actual happenings on street and in factories became fewer and fewer. Mr. Graham, however, insisted that Ned be retained as reporter, and the young editor began to feel the limitations of his position.

"Isn't it just fine to see how Reginald Nelson is pushing his way to the front?" Vivian Derwent spoke these words to Joy Graham one day at Joy's home.

"Yes," answered Joy enthusiastically. "You know it was through papa that he was given the editorship. Papa is quite interested in the management of the Courier himself now, and I am glad of it, for I was afraid he would feel so bad about being left off the board of trustees of our church."

"I was sorry to see your father refuse to become a member," said Vivian.

The conversation turned again to Reginald Nelson, and Vivian said shyly, "If I tell you something will you keep it a secret?"

"I surely will," promised Joy.

"I believe I am in love with Reginald Nelson," said Vivian bashfully. "He is just such a dandy fellow."

"Do you think he cares anything for you?" asked Joy.

"He is always pleasant to me," responded the other, "but he has never said anything to me about love. You know Englishmen are very reserved."

"How about George Caldwell, for example?" responded Joy Graham.

"Well," said Vivian, looking serious, "George is always protesting his love to me, and he wants me to become engaged. I think I might like George all right if I had not met Reginald."

"Oh, leave Reginald alone!" responded Joy brusquely. "George is just dying of love for you. I thought you were engaged once."

"Oh, that was long ago when I was just a child!" replied Vivian, tossing her head. "He tried to keep me to that engagement the other day, but I told him it was a woman's privilege to change her mind. You never changed your mind, did you, Joy?" she continued.

"You and Roland have been engaged for a long time. When is your wedding?"

Vivian noticed the utter lack of enthusiasm shown by her friend as Joy answered, "The day has been set for October the 20th."

"Why, what's the matter?"

Joy Graham did not answer further in regard to her wedding. The subject of her marriage to Roland Gregory was becoming one of anxiety to Joy Graham. She began to doubt if she really felt toward the young manufacturer as a wife ought to feel toward a husband. She had mentioned her doubts one day to her father, but he had treated her rather severely.

"It is too late now, Joy, to change your mind. The engagement has been announced, and I have made some business engagements with Roland on the strength of your marriage to him."

"But people break engagements," the daughter had urged.

"Of course they do," her father answered with some heat, "and people break their marriage vows, and people break the laws of God and man, but I thought Christianity taught people to keep pledges."

This conversation made Joy Graham decide to abide by her former pledge to Roland Gregory that she would be his wife, but as time passed and his habits became more dissipated she felt estranged from him more and more.

CHAPTER XV.

Independence Day.

THE citizens of Bronson were preparing for a glorious celebration on Independence day.

For weeks the business men and factories had been working on floats, banners and street decorations, and when July the 4th dawned it found the Michigan city ready to greet it in a way which would have done honor to the largest cities in the land.

A number of the more public spirited citizens, led by Edgar Prince, George Edwards, Mr. Marchmont and others like-minded, had charge of the celebration, and they spared no efforts to make it a great occasion. Allan Rutledge had been engaged to make the oration at the park following the monster parade.

Meanwhile the circulation of the Courier was falling off. People were losing confidence in it. The presence of Ned Rowlands on the staff was discouraging to many of the radical reformers.

The young editor knew nothing of the schemes of the conspirators who were now confident that they had Reginald in their grasp. They planned in a "very short time" to take advantage of the falling subscription list of the Courier to unceremoniously oust the budding editor from his chair and follow up this blow by circulating stories defaming his character and also by beginning action in the courts for the immediate payment of the notes which Reginald Nelson had signed in payment for his stock in the Courier.

The evening before the Fourth Allan Rutledge and Reginald were closeted together in the private office of the editor.

"I have a complete list of the illegal and vicious resorts which are open every night," said Reginald, holding a paper in his hand, "and I also have a list giving the names of the property holders who are receiving rent from these lawbreakers."

"And your plan is to give all your information to the public?" The minister spoke slowly and deliberately.

"Precisely," answered the other promptly. "I feel there will be no danger of advertising these resorts by publishing their locations, as I am fully convinced that the issue of the Courier tomorrow will mean the elimination of this evil from Bronson for a time at least."

"And you will publish the names of the property holders also?" responded Allan Rutledge.

"Certainly. It is the privilege of a newspaper to make public such information at any time."

"Let me see the list of the property holders," said the minister.

He took a paper from Reginald's hand and glanced over it.

"Isn't this an awful record?" he exclaimed. "Why, here are some of our leading capitalists in Bronson. What can they mean by renting property for such vile uses?"

"Oh, that is a simple proposition," replied the editor. "I discovered the secret of such things while I was still in England. Reputable business would only pay an interest of from 5 per cent to 10 per cent, but these resorts pay an interest on the investment of 35 per cent to 30 per cent."

"It is a mere matter, then, of sordid gain," said Allan Rutledge in disgust.

"That is all," replied the editor. "Certain capital asks for nothing but interest. It cares not for God nor man."

"Go ahead," said the minister, with a stern look on his face. "Make your editorial and your exposure as complete and radical as you can make it. In my speech in the park I will refer to your paper, and demand that the citizens of Bronson declare another revolution."

Independence day dawned serenely beautiful. The rising sun was greeted with cannons and loud reports of giant firecrackers.

As the monster parade moved slowly through the streets of Bronson that morning Reginald Nelson mingled with the crowd of onlookers, and felt his whole being thrilled with the patriotic emotions which were vibrant among the people. For the moment he forgot that he had staked his entire future on the issue of the Courier for that day. He forgot the rage and anger that unquestionably would be aroused against him by the men whose greed and falsity he had exposed.

"This is the true land of destiny," he said to himself, as he gazed on the passing pageant, and noticed the enthusiasm and spirit of the crowds which had massed themselves on either side of the line of march.

Just at that moment there were some of Bronson's citizens who were not at all interested in its celebration of Independence day. In the office of Mr. Graham a little company composed of Roland Gregory, Ned Rowlands and Bud McCrea were sitting with blanched faces.

"Why didn't you report to us what he was going to do?" McCrea was saying angrily to Ned Rowlands.

"I knew nothing about it," the other replied, in a frightened tone of voice. "I did not know there was a detective working in the city." That's how Nelson got the list of names and places.

"What is to be done, Graham?" asked Bud McCrea in a hopeless tone.

"The fellow has taken advantage of us," replied Mr. Graham, speaking with emphasis, "but he is in our power. Today we oust him from his place as editor. I will begin action against him in the courts tomorrow for payment on his notes. You know, they read, 'payable on demand.' We will demand immediate payment, and I know he will not be able to meet it, and we will ruin his credit."

The eyes of the lawyer flashed fire as he uttered these last words. On the table before him lay the special morning edition of the Courier. In heavy leaded type was the story of the insincerity of the city administration in regard to reform of abuses and a complete list of all the gambling places and vicious resorts in Bronson as well as the names of the owners of the property. It was a terrible exposure.

"But it's too late," said McCrea, with a groan. "The people will be roused to madness by this mass of stuff, and they will make a clean-up themselves."

Mr. Graham was silent for a few moments and then said confidently: "The history of these spasmodic efforts at so called reform shows that these ebullitions of popular outcry are short lived. Let us be patient. With the Courier in the hands of a safe man we will have everything calmed down by election time."

"I hope so," responded McCrea, but he shook his head dolefully.

"We must proceed to business," said Mr. Graham. "I want to go over to the park and hear Dr. Rutledge give his oration. Now we will depose Nelson right away, and you, Rowlands, are to take charge. The office is closed until 5 o'clock this evening. When Nelson returns you order him out and tell him that the officers of the Courier Publishing company have discharged him and have placed you in charge."

"Better send a couple of good trusty policemen up to the office at 5 o'clock," said Ned Rowlands. "That Englishman is a tough proposition when he gets excited."

"I am glad you suggested that," said Mr. Graham. "I will see that you are amply protected as the lawful editor."

After some further discussion the little company separated. Mr. Graham walking to the large Bronson park, where the crowds had already assembled to hear the orator of the day.

At the close of the music Edgar Prince stepped forward and introduced Allan Rutledge as the speaker for the occasion, making a short complimentary address. Mr. Graham started as he saw the minister stride to the front of the platform, for he noticed that he held in his hands a copy of the Independence day edition of the Courier.

Allan Rutledge proceeded in earnest tones: "It is the birthday of our nation, this glorious nation which is God's last opportunity for the human race. The history of our country is the history of the rise, progress and victory of civil and religious liberty." The speaker then eloquently reviewed the leading events which led up to the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the principles for which the fathers fought and bled and died.

The audience was listening with the closest attention when suddenly the speaker ceased. He stood silent for a full moment. Every eye rested upon him, wondering what he meant by his long pause.

"But Bronson is unworthy of a place in this land consecrated by the blood of our heroes!" he exclaimed in thunder tones. "Why do we celebrate Independence day? We have abandoned the principles of our fathers, and greed for gain and blasted honor have now the pre-eminence among us."

The crowd was thunderstruck. They stared at the minister, unable to understand his meaning. He held out the copy of the Courier which had been in his hand during all his speech and shouted louder than ever: "Have you read today's Courier? It will tell you the black story of our infamy and shame. I well know these vile enemies of our country's good cannot stand the light of day, and your brave editor, Reginald Nelson, has turned on the light, and Bronson will yet be clean."

At the mention of the editor's name a mighty cheer went up from the crowd.

Dinner Stories

The colored population in a little Alabama town was having a race meet at the local fair grounds. An aged negro, whose shoes were blashed to give his gnarly toes points air, sat in seat on the grandstand. Immediately in front of him stood a large, excited dandy, who had a whole dollar wagged on the favorite in the free-for-all trot.

As the horses turned into the home stretch the woman jumped up in the air, coming down squarely with all her bird, and at the infirm extremities of the old man. A groan escaped him and she turned and begged his pardon.

"Uncle Zach, I'm awfully sorry!" she said.

"Dat's all right, honey," answered the old man gallantly. "I only hope mah feet ain't too corrugated for yoh pleasure."—Saturday Evening Post.

DANDRUFF SOON

RUINS THE HAIR

Makes It Lifeless, Dull, Dry, Brittle and Thin.

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary ketchup; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

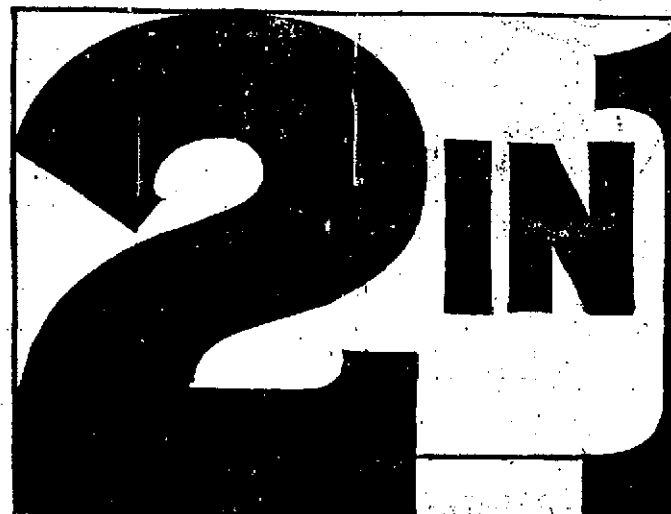

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will be silky, fluffy, lustrous, soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

COMMANDERS UNABLE TO LEAD MEN IN BATTLE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, April 27.—An eye witness at British headquarters in France, writing in explanation of the recent operations at Neuve Chapelle, points out the limitations which beset commanders in modern warfare.

"The only way in which the commander of any unit, be it battalion, brigade, division, or army corps can actively influence a battle," he says, "is by throwing into the fight a body of fresh troops which have not been employed. His power of control is especially limited in modern war by the use of machine guns and heavy artillery, which sweep over the whole area near the front line and in such operations as are now in progress by the inevitable confusion resulting from close quarter fighting in enclosed country."

The troops launched into the fight must of necessity be left to look after themselves to a great extent, and their fortunes will depend on the individual resource, initiative and determination of regimental officers and men. It is impossible to alter their dispositions, to change the directions to which they have been committed, or in many cases even to communicate with them, for orderlies get shot and telephone wires are out. Beyond the fact that they are heavily engaged and under heavy fire, their exact circumstances may be unknown. In such circumstances it is only by his reserve that a commander can save the fight. It may be thrown in to fill a gap, to flank some position which resists all efforts at frontal attack, to repulse a counter-attack, or to give the front line when checked the necessary impetus to carry on the fight. It is in fact in the power of quick decisions as to where and how to employ reserves, that generalship to a great extent lies."

WHAT WISCONSIN DOES IN EDUCATIONAL LINE

EXHAUSTIVE REPORT TO STATE BOARD OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS COVERS ENTIRE SUBJECT ON SCHOOLING.

BUT CAN BE IMPROVED

Note Says Many Points Can Be Raised to Higher Efficiency.—What the Regents Have Done.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 27.—How the state of Wisconsin is meeting the demands of the public schools in furnishing efficiently trained teachers and how best to remedy defects in the normal school system is outlined in an exhaustive report of a cooperative survey made by A. N. Farmer for the state board of public affairs and made public today. The letter of transmittal to the legislature is signed by F. E. McGovern, governor on Dec. 29, 1914, the date of the report, and Miles C. Riley, secretary.

No state in the Union, the director of the survey says, has more completely met the demands of its public schools for trained teachers than Wisconsin, with its eight normal schools. Nevertheless, in many directions the avenues for important improvements, which are defined in detail throughout the 400-page report.

The state schools employ about 15,700 teachers. Over 9,000 answered a questionnaire. Of 1,362 answered a questionnaire, 41 per cent were graduates of Wisconsin normal schools; of 2,300 high school teachers answering, 57 per cent were graduates, and of 5,433 elementary teachers 57 per cent were graduates. The report declares the greatest need of the public schools to be an improvement of the efficiency of the normal school product. The report shows that the quality of teaching by the normal schools is the greatest need of the public schools, as well as of other teachers in the state, is far below what might be reasonably expected.

The report summarizes the forward steps taken by the board of public affairs in the last two years. Among them are a new system of accounting and the appointment of a business manager, a new plan for legislative appropriations for the schools, three inspectors, a new policy of training schools, the abolition of the Latin, German and English courses so-called, the abolition in three of the schools of the two years' college course, elimination of classes smaller than ten students, raising of entrance requirements of the rural school course.

"The normal schools as yet have not rendered to the public schools a full degree of the largest and most definite service of which they should be and are capable," says the report. "Except in a few isolated instances, the normal schools have not placed their duty to the state as solely that of training a sufficient number of graduates to supply the demand of the state public school system for teachers."

It is pointed out that the normal schools fail to utilize and derive benefit to any considerable extent from each other's experience. Too much emphasis has been placed by the regents on enrollment. With regard to courses of study, the director takes ground that until the normal schools are free to formulate courses without reference to requirements of higher institutions of learning, they will be greatly handicapped in their work. The first three years of the five year course, for example, designed as a substitute for high school work, are filling no necessary place in the normal school curriculum, with the possible exception of one school. The teaching of writing is almost universally neglected.

Mr. Farmer, after making a study of the salaries paid normal school instructors, concludes the are inadequate, resulting in many of the ablest of them going elsewhere for larger salaries. Usually the most effective teachers are lost this way. Another criticism is little adequate supervision of classroom instruction. This is due to the fact that teachers do not receive sufficient help. The selection of teachers in normal schools is not sufficiently based on teaching ability. Many faculty members report they do not have sufficient incentive to do their best work in teaching. The subject matter of courses is too often unrelated to present interests or future needs of students. Much of the teaching does not tend to make efficient teachers, nor is it worthy of emulation of students when they become teachers.

"The significant thing in regard to the large amount of poor teaching in the normal schools is not that it exists," says the report, "but that little or nothing is done to displace the inefficient teacher. Year after year, for one reason or another, these teachers are continued, and in some cases their salaries are increased. Until ability to teach becomes the primary consideration in selecting teachers, making salary increases, and in promoting to higher positions, the normal schools of Wisconsin cannot hope for the most efficient classroom instruction."

The report defines the most urgent need of the normal system as ascertained by the regents of the state's need for a comprehensive program for meeting this need. In this program, future needs should be anticipated. The need for teachers in special schools should be determined. Budget appropriations to carry on studies of other school needs and educational movements are recommended, and reasons should be definitely planned for by each normal school for its territory, and these schools should lead in solving pressing educational problems, especially those of the elementary school. These are conclusions given with detailed reasoning to back them up.

Among other conclusions reached are that the presidents of normal schools should be relieved of clerical work, and provision should be made for the retirement of teachers, instructors and administrative officers who have become disabled through long service but who are retained on the teaching force despite their disabilities.

logical function in cerebral areas." On the subject of "perception," another instructor used the following: "Qualities which constitute the object's externality," "intellectual synthesis," "empirical psychology," "sensational complex." In this class the student said: "Perception is the process by which he mind completes an impression of sense by an escort of images."

The following are questions asked by an instructor in psychology: "Do we have an independent entity or transcendental ego to united thoughts as a combining medium?" "Do we need to posit an independent ego to explain personal identity?" "Is this feeling of intimacy all there is to it?"

Criticism of instructional work in arithmetic, grammar and other subjects are enforced by numerous concrete examples similar to the above in the psychology work.

STOUGHTON'S MAYOR HAS HOUSE CLEANING

Boot Leggers and Other Dispensers of "Wet" Goods Taken in Numerous Recent Raids.

Edgerton, April 27.—The expected has happened in Stoughton, and everywhere groups of excited citizens are waiting for the results of the raiding activity of the authorities in getting the illegal sellers and users of liquor.

Some time ago a force of extra policemen and firemen were sent here preparing for the wholesale arrests, and Saturday night the unsuspecting victims were trapped.

However, the big guns seem to have been aimed thus far, and a matter of considerable discussion is being held. The men will be molested. But many were less fortunate, and new sensations are to be expected as only a minute as only a beginning has been made. Chief of Police Powe stated emphatically that a complete cleanup will be effected.

Saturday afternoon Sae Hoverson was arrested and charged with bootlegging and carrying liquor. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $50 and costs. He was also charged with carrying liquor and was fined $50 and costs. He was also charged with carrying liquor and was fined $50 and costs.

At a late hour Saturday night while festivities were at their height, the authorities visited the City club and confiscated a keg of beer which was on tap, and around which several men were drinking. All of them were arrested and charged with bootlegging.

The Calumet club, near the depot, was next visited and again a number of men were gathered around a keg of beer. This was confiscated, in addition of seven full kegs. The men were placed under arrest and their cases continued until Wednesday. Both clubs were closed.

Saturday evening the police were informed that there was to be a keg party in the Turner's woods. So Superintendent Powe, Chief of Police Hanson and other officers visited the place and found a number of local men gathered around a keg, together with a couple of negro tramps, who were furnishing the amusement. The tramps were ordered to move on. Edwin Elvethum was fined $15 and costs on the charge and six months under the Huber law. Julius Johnson was fined $5 and costs.

Louis Kaupanger pleaded not guilty to the charge of giving away liquor in dry territory, and his case comes up May first. There were also two minor boys in the party who are yet to be rounded up.

At the recent election Stoughton went dry by a large majority, and it was boasted that the clubs were instrumental in bringing this about.

Bosnia Is Serbian Ambition and Austrian Trouble Maker

Describing Bosnia, which has been a bone of contention in southeastern Europe for so many years, today's bulletin of the National Geographic society says:

"Bosnia has long been an ambition of Serbia's and an Austrian thorn in her side. Serbs have filled the Bosnian villages and mines, and the Serbian tongue is that spoken by most of the population. When the Russians, in 1875, threw off the Turkish yoke, which had become so galling as to be unbearable, the Serbians came to the aid of their rebellious countrymen, and during the war there grew up an understanding between Serbian and Bosnian leaders that was to have brought the union of their respective territories with the accomplishment of the Russian dream of the Balkans."

The reconstruction of the Balkans made imperative by the war was effected by the Congress of Berlin in 1878. Serbian leaders knew that their dream of a Greater Serbia would never receive attention from representatives of the Powers, but, nevertheless, they were unprepared for the disposition of Bosnia and Herzegovina that was finally taken. For that matter, Serbians were not the only interested parties caught unprepared. The Servians were bitterly angered and made anxious by the act of the congress authorizing Austrian occupation and administration of the rebellious Turkish provinces. In the first place, Serbian expansion into a large and fertile territory was definitely blocked; in the second place, the Austro-Hungarian giant closed more tightly around Serbian territory. The name of Octopus of the Balkans was coined at that time for application to the Dual Monarchy.

"Bosnia is a land of wooded mountains and fertile valleys. There is very little unproductive land which is not under the plow. The soil is rich in minerals, which include coal, iron, copper, chrome, manganese, cinnabar, zinc and mercury. Gold and silver were worked among its mountains by the Romans, and in those days it was celebrated for its richness in these precious metals. It has, also, valuable salt mines and marble quarries."

"This province, however, is chiefly agricultural. More than 90 per cent of the population is engaged in farming of antiquated methods. Much of the fruitful land remains uncultivated. The chief European cereals and fruits are raised. Tobacco is one of Bosnia's best known products, and many discriminating smokers in all parts of the world insist upon the Bosnian leaf. This tobacco, however, does not compare in richness with the product of American, Cuban or Australian fields. It has a pale yellowish leaf and has a spicy fragrance similar to that of burning autumn leaves. Dried figs and tobacco are two important items of the export. The annual tobacco crop amounts to more than 3,000 tons."

The province has an area of 16,170 square miles, and a population of nearly 2,000,000. This population is but little mixed. There is a sprinkling of Austrians and Hungarians, mostly officials; gypsies, Italians and Jews. The Jews speak Spanish and are the descendants of those who fled in the 16th century from Spain to escape the Inquisition. Serajevo, with about 45,000 inhabitants, is the capital of Bosnia. This town is filled with odd contrasts of the past and present, of the institutions, customs and conveniences of a distant yesterday by the side of the railway station and the telegraph office. In this respect, the city is typical of the country."

Cannot Lose Real Good. We cannot lose any real good. Friends pass on our sight, but our lives are the stronger and more beautiful for that friendship. Effort and achievement are forgotten, but the long-ago struggle and the victory won are armor for new contests today. Happiness lives on as sweet memories. Self-sacrifice abides as unselfishness. ## FAIR HOUSE GREETED LA SALLE STOCK CO.

But Audience Enjoys "The Girl Question" as in the Old Days of Its Prime.

"The Girl Question" by the La Salle Musical Stock company, at the Myers Theatre last evening, found only a fair house to greet the old musical success of Chicago setting. The comedy, renovated with new lines and several new songs, although perhaps mediocre found favor with the audience.

What the chorus lacked in singing ability it made up in lines of feminine beauty, pretty costumes and the professional dance steps Joe Woods, as Baron May Von Tesmar, nobleman of German parentage, doing America with a joke, a smile and a healthy handshake, was perhaps the best actor the La Salle people brought forth during the evening. Mr. Wooley humor brought forth rounds of laughter and his acting was above reproach. Harriet Lee, in the role of Elsie Davis, cashier at the restaurant where Guy Vover as Con Ryan, the head waiter, jollied on his patrons, and also the winning Elsie, found favor and made many friends among the audience. And Con himself was not far behind, both he and Miss Lee possessing pleasing voices, especially so in "Be Sweet to Me Kid" and "Save a Little Love for Me."

Miss Eileen Morrison as Joe Foster, the head waitress, was a dear, and Guy Vover as Con Ryan, the head waiter, jollied on his patrons, and also the winning Elsie, found favor and made many friends among the audience. And Con himself was not far behind, both he and Miss Lee possessing pleasing voices, especially so in "Be Sweet to Me Kid" and "Save a Little Love for Me."

Just What Did He Mean? Judge—"What was the cause of the rumput?" Policeman—"Well, you see, judge, this man here and that woman there are married." Judge—"Yes, yes, I know; but what was the other cause?"—Boston Transcript.

Slovaks, Huns' Bitterest Enemy, May at Last Realize Nationality

Washington, D. C., April 27.—In a of all the forward waves of slav migration, in language, they were most nearly related to the Czechs of all the Slavs. Czechish was, for a long time, used as the literary language of the Slovaks. Temperamentally, however, the Czech and the Slovak contrast sharply; for the Czech is fiery, excitable, and quick, where the Slovak is docile, stolid and slow.

"The Slovaks are a peasant people. Their aristocracy long ago submitted to the power, the wealth and higher culture of the Magyar, and became thoroughly Magyarized. Their peasants, indifferent in their want, continued in a close corporation of Slavism in the mountain villages. Despite the development of recent generations of a determination on the part of the ruling Magyars to force the Slovaks to merge into the Magyar race at any cost, these peasants have retained their Slavonic tongue, Slavonic names, and, even, have gained a keener sense of racial integrity."

"The Slovaks have forbidden the use of Slovak in the schools. They have denied these people the right of organization, a native press and a native pulpit—but in vain. For, at the beginning of the 19th century, enthused by a like movement among Austria's subject Czechs, the Slovak leaders wrought a literary language out of the jumble of their native dialects, and began the work of more than 100 years of awakening and intensifying in their people a racial patriotism. This work has accomplished wonders in the face of an unrelenting opposition. Slovak numbers are too few to encourage dreams of independence, and, so, of all the Slavonic peoples without the fold of Russia, the Slovaks are perhaps the most whole heartedly in favor of the San-Slavism program."

"The bulk of this folk, pushed against the northern mountains, lies behind a line drawn from Presburg eastward through Zemplin to the Galician border. Practically all of this region is composed of wooded mountains and broken hills, and is of such a nature that unremitting labor within its confines brings in a competence, but never the reward of wealth. Thus, the Slovaks have had little material with which to carry on their struggle with the Magyars. Their resistance has been made in poverty; has been largely passive, but, nevertheless, has had a stolid, immobile quality which has defied misfortune.

"The Slovaks occupied the territory where they are found today between the 6th and 7th centuries. They were one of the most hapless
